Brain stimulated. Body energized. Heart opened. In an hour and a half, attendees will feel a "Jung at Heart" tune-up.

A Clear and Present Danger: Narcissism in the Era of Donald Trump Book Discussion

Presenter: Rosemarie Paini and Jody Wainer Date: September 21, 2016

Psychologist Rosemarie Paini and Social worker and Jungian Analyst Jody Wainer will discuss several essays from a new book, A Clear and Present Danger: Narcissism in the Era of Donald Trump, edited by Drs. Steven Buser and Leonard Cruz. Our discussion will explore the broader presence of narcissism and its impact on others, communities and society-at-large. As mental health providers, we are well aware that it is unhelpful, unethical and irresponsible to diagnose anyone from afar.

A Psychological Lens on Sin

Presenter: Rev. Daniel Budd Date: October 19, 2016

Jung said that humanity's worst sin is unconsciousness. Rev. Budd couldn't find that among any of the theological definitions he researched. Join Rev. Budd as he invites you to explore this major concept of religious life through a psychological lens.

The Collective Unconscious in the Age of Neuroscience

Presenter: Hallie B. Durchslag Date: November 16, 2016

Come re-discover the roots of the collective unconscious and Jung's notion of archetypes, and learn how they remain as relevant today as when they began.

The Lakota Vision Quest and the Path of Individuation

Presenter: Dyane N. Sherwood Date: February 15, 2017

The Lakota tradition is attuned to the natural world and to the human need for connection, orientation and resilience when faced with extreme circumstances. Come learn about their practice of the vision quest as a rite of transformation that can take place at any time of life.

Drumming as Active Imagination

Presenter: Dyane N. Sherwood Date: Wednesday, March 15, 2017

Wear comfortable clothing and bring a blanket, pad or pillow so you can sit down or lie on the floor. If you have a drum or a rattle, bring them, too. Settle in to reverie while Dyane drums. There are no expectations of what will come, and you may choose to share your experience or not when the talking stick is passed at the end of the program.

Stay tuned for an exciting topic!

Date: Wednesday, April 19, 2017

Save the date in your calendar and be on the lookout for an announcement soon from Jung Cleveland.

Musings on Healing (or Easing) the Narcissistic Wound

Presenter: Adina Davidson Date: May 17, 2017

Join us for the last Wednesday event of the season to discuss the prevalence of narcissistic personality disorder, the narcissistic wound and the archetypal defenses of that wound.

About the Presenters:

Jody Wainer is a Licensed Independent Social Worker and a Jungian analyst. She has been in private practice since 1996. She is the past president of Jung Cleveland. Ms. Wainer is interested in increasing the visibility and understanding of Jungian thought and the support it can offer to our lives.

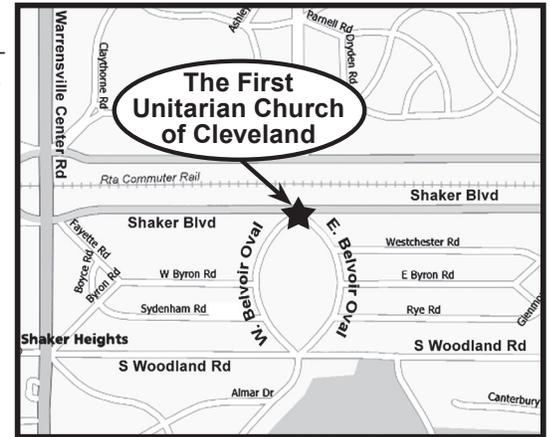

Rosemarie Paini is in private practice in Lyndhurst. She received her Ph.D. from Pacifica Graduate Institute in 2001 at the age of 59. She currently is enrolled as an auditor at the Pittsburgh Seminar of the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts.

Rev. Daniel E. Budd has been Parish Minister at the First Unitarian Church of Cleveland since August 1999. He was ordained in 1979, and from 1979 to 1984, he served Unitarian Universalist congregations in Hartland Four Corners, Vermont, and then in Midland, Texas; from 1984 to 1999, he served the Unitarian Universalist Church of Buffalo, New York. Rev. Budd holds a B.A. in Psychology from Otterbein College (1973) and a Master's of Divinity from Eden Theological Seminary (1979). He currently serves on the Community Leader's Council/Greater Cleveland of Planned Parenthood of Northeast Ohio, the Delegate Assembly for Greater Cleveland Congregations, and on the Board and Program Committee of the C.G. Jung Educational Center of Cleveland.

Hallie B. Durchslag Ph.D., LISW-S is a Jungian-based psychotherapist in private practice in Cleveland Heights and a field instructor and supervisor at the Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences at CWRU. She earned her Ph.D. from Pacifica Graduate Institute and currently serves as Vice President of Jung Cleveland.

Dyane N. Sherwood, Ph.D., is a Jungian Psychoanalyst and a Teaching Member of the Sandplay Therapists of America (STA). She began her study of shamanism, including Native American traditions, with her late analyst, Donald Sandner. She worked for many years with the Lakota elder Pansy Hawking, and underwent vision quests and participated in the Sun Dance on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota. Dr. Sherwood has a private practice in Oberlin.

Adina Davidson Ph.D., LISW is in her fifth year of Jungian analytic training. She is in private practice in Cleveland Heights and Beachwood and serves as an adjunct professor at the Cleveland Institute of Art.
